‘Kentucky Life’ explores the B-29 Superfortress, the Pink Boots Society, the work of artist Robert Morgan, and the life of Louisvillian Alice Houston

FOR RELEASE: April 24, 2023

On this episode of Kentucky Life, host Chip Polston explores the history of the B-29 Superfortress, the plane used to deliver the atomic bombs during World War II; meets members of the Pink Boots Society, comprising many of the movers and shakers in the fermented and alcoholic beverage industry; marvels at the work of Lexington-based artist Robert Morgan, who creates assemblage sculptures out of discarded family items; and celebrates the life of Louisville native and business leader Alice Houston, who founded the largest minority-owned transportation company in North America.
