FOR RELEASE: October 14, 2026

In a new episode of Kentucky Life, host Chip Polston meets the scientists fighting to save fragile plants in a nature preserve decimated by an EF4 tornado.

Polston introduces viewers to Woodstock Lavender Co. in Pulaski County, where owners have successfully cultivated lavender in Kentucky’s climate and transformed it into a variety of products.

Finally, Polston meets a group of sailors who spend a week teaching Kentuckians about the mission and service of the United States Navy.
